

---

From: Sonja Pace
Sent: Friday, June 01, 2012 9:40 PM
To: Steve Redisch
Subject: RE: Voice of America issue at UN

Yes, have run across those types ... the way they are. I figure UN or other officials can take care of themselves. I knew a colleague (terribly respected and NYT -- almost got us all killed in DRC, but never mind) and he brought a UN official to near tears because of his badgering. Alas, we knew it was just the way he was. I will say the guy wrote dynamite stories. But, want to find out what's behind this particular issue. Have forwarded the guy's initial note to Margaret and waiting for her reply. Keep you posted.

Other issue -- tough week watching old timers like Gary and my buddy Cindy go .... bear with me. thanks

---

From: Steve Redisch
Sent: 01 June 2012 16:53
To: Sonja Pace
Subject: Re: Voice of America issue at UN

Thanks. Puzzling that Margaret would take up against a reporter who would, according to just one source, be aggressively questioning UN officials and would call on him to write more positive stories about the UN. Reminds me of Les Kinsolving at the WH. He had the most hairbrained questions, but that was Les.

Steve Redisch
VOA Executive Editor

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 1, 2012, at 2:59 PM, "Sonja Pace" <paces@voanews.com> wrote:

Yes, David Jones sent me a note about this earlier in the day and was actually going to send on to you for info. No idea what happened here and Margaret is on leave. Am sending the guy's rebuke along to her to find out what went on here.

Keep you posted.
Sonja

---

From: Steve Redisch
Sent: Friday, June 01, 2012 11:15 AM
To: Kyle King; Lynne Well; Barbara Brady; Rebecca McMenamin; Sonja Pace
Cc: Susan Andross; William Marsh
Subject: RE: Voice of America issue at UN

Sonja Pace is now looped in on this issue and she should deal with this.

---

From: Kyle King
Sent: Friday, June 01, 2012 11:11 AM
To: Lynne Well; Barbara Brady; Steve Redisch; Rebecca McMenamin

Steve Redisch

From: Sonja Pace
Sent: Friday, June 01, 2012 9:40 PM
To: Steve Redisch
Subject: RE: Voice of America issue at UN

Yes, have run across those types ... the way they are. I figure UN or other officials can take care of themselves. I knew a colleague (terribly respected and NYT -- almost got us all killed in DRC, but never mind) and he brought a UN official to near tears because of his badgering. Alas, we knew it was just the way he was. I will say the guy wrote dynamite stories. But, want to find out what's behind this particular issue. Have forwarded the guy's initial note to Margaret and waiting for her reply. Keep you posted.

Other issue -- tough week watching old timers like Gary and my buddy Cindy go .... bear with me. thanks

---

From: Steve Redisch
Sent: 01 June 2012 16:53
To: Sonja Pace
Subject: Re: Voice of America issue at UN

Thanks. Puzzling that Margaret would take up against a reporter who would, according to just one source, be aggressively questioning UN officials and would call on him to write more positive stories about the UN. Reminds me of Les Kinsolving at the WH. He had the most hairbrained questions, but that was Les.

Steve Redisch
VOA Executive Editor

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 1, 2012, at 2:59 PM, "Sonja Pace" <paces@voanews.com> wrote:

Yes, David Jones sent me a note about this earlier in the day and was actually going to send on to you for info. No idea what happened here and Margaret is on leave. Am sending the guy's rebuke along to her to find out what went on here.

Keep you posted.
Sonja

---

From: Steve Redisch
Sent: Friday, June 01, 2012 11:15 AM
To: Kyle King; Lynne Weil; Barbara Brady; Rebecca McMEnamin; Sonja Pace
Cc: Susan Andross; William Marsh
Subject: RE: Voice of America issue at UN

Sonja Pace is now looped in on this issue and she should deal with this.

---

From: Kyle King
Sent: Friday, June 01, 2012 11:11 AM
To: Lynne Weil; Barbara Brady; Steve Redisch; Rebecca McMEnamin